THE GRAND SCHEMER

HIS TAILOR CALLS TO SEE HIM WITH HIS LITTLE BILL.

The Account Remains Unsettled, but the Clothing Artist Is Taken Into the Great American Steam Trousers Creaser Company.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

Major Crofoot had left the door of his office open by accident, and as he sat smoking with his heels on his desk he was suddenly accosted with: "I vhas come for dot leetle bill." "What—er—eh—is it you?" exclaimed the major as he almost fell out of his chair in getting up. "Well, well, but this is luck. Why, man, I was just making out a check for you. I happened to remember that I owed you a dollar for cleaning my suit." "Yes, it vhas a dollar," replied the tailor as he held out the bill, "and you don't pay me for a year." "A year? How time flies! Yes, it is a bill for a dollar for cleaning a suit and pepper suit, and if you had only waited half an hour you would have had a check for it. The check would have been filled out for $100. My dear

"I VHAS COME FOR DOT LEETLE BILL." man, you are one of the few people who had confidence in me when my fortunes were at the lowest ebb. The check for a hundred was to prove my gratitude."

"Well, I'll take him now," said the tailor.

"Ah, I remember that salt and pepper suit and the days of my adversity!" sighed the major as he walked about and ignored the check. "You brought the suit up here one day thoroughly cleaned and rehabilitated, and you went away saying not a word about the bill. You treated me as if I had millions of dollars, and never, never can I forget your consideration. Major Crofoot remembers those who remember him."

"Vhell?" queried the tailor as he looked at the bill in his hand.

"I said a check for a hundred," replied the major, "but I shall do better than that. A hundredfold is not enough. I'll make a rich man of you. I'll put you right up among the millionaires. The more I think of how you trusted in my integrity the more anxious am I to prove my gratitude. Tailor, shake hands. Tailor, accept my congratulations."

"But how vhas he?" asked the creditor, with a puzzled look.

"It was this way, my dear, confiding friend: I was just about to incorporate the Great American Steam Trousers Creaser, with a cash capital of $1,000,000. The papers go to the secretary of state today. Next week the first machine is set up. In three months we shall have 50 of them at work in the principal cities of the United States. The stock is supposed to sell at par, but I can get you $10,000 worth at $87. The dividends won't be less than 50 per cent and may go a hundred. For the first machine out we want a practical manager. You shall have the position at $20,000 a year. Tailor, shake hands."

"I don't see how he vhas," said the tailor after a lymphatic shake.

"You don't? That is because your good fortune has for the moment upset you. Look at my trousers. Look at the trousers of all the men you meet. There are creases in them. When you buy a pair of $10 trousers, you pay $5 for the creases. You must have 'em to be in the swim. Can't go into society or get a check cashed at the bank without 'em. The creasing, as you know, is now done by hand and is slow work. Our company will crease by steam. The trousers will be fed in, the same as straw, and at the rate of 30 pairs a minute. They come out beautifully creased, at a cost of only a quarter a pair, and there you are. Each machine will crease 18,000 pairs per day of ten hours, and that's an income of $4,500 a day. We shall steam crease the trousers of the world. Every royal head will be among our patrons. Isn't it plain to you now? Isn't it as clear as daylight that you will be riding in your own barouche in less than six months?"

"But you owe me a dollar," persisted the tailor.

"Great Scott, but you talk about a dollar when hundreds of thousands are falling at your feet! Let me go over this once again. We are the Great American Steam Trousers Creaser. We don't steam trousers, but we crease 'em by steam."

"I know."

"We crease 18,000 pairs per day at a quarter a pair. We make $4,400 per day clear money on every machine.

and we have 20,000 machines at work. Your share of the profits will be at least half a million dollars per year. In ten years you are worth $5,000,000. Tailor, shake hands. It all comes from your confidence in me."

"But I don't have some confidence."

"Vhas here for my dollar."

"And the dollar is your deposit on your ground floor stock. It is an evidence of your good faith and will eventually be returned to you. Can you sell your shop today? Can you be ready in three days to take hold of the first machine and feed 18,000 pairs of trousers through it? You can, of course. You will be ready, and I can depend on you. Shall I speak to some bank about your opening an account?"

"If—if—you could pay."

"You'll get your first month's salary in advance, and if you want to use half a million I can lend you the cash. That's all, except that we'll shake hands again. You will excuse me, I know, but I've got to go out for an hour or two. Call again. See you later. Don't fail me."

The grand promoter put on his hat and overcoat and left the office. The tailor had come for that dollar. He took a chair to wait. The fire was low and the room was cold, and in an hour his teeth were chattering. He stood it for another hour, and then he went down stairs. At the foot of the stairs he met a man who queried: "Do you know if that old deadbeat Major Crofoot is up stairs?"

"He vhas gone out," was the reply.

"Have you been trying to collect a bill?"

"Yes."

"And how did you come out?"

"I vhas put into dot Great American Steam Trousers Creaser und creased all over 18,000 pairs a day, und now I vhas glad to go home mit my life und let dot bill go. Shake hands. I congratulate you!"

A WOMAN'S STRATEGY.

She Found a Way to Quickened a Laggard Lover to Action.

After the athletic young man, resting lazily in an easy chair, had studied the ceiling at which he was blowing smoke he replied to the pretty sister who had twice asked him the same question:

"Bess, you know I don't care the turn of my hand for women. I'm saturated with what the politicians call apathy. Of course I remember the Georgia girl that visited us last summer. She was a magnificent creature to look at, but I'll warrant she is just like the rest of them. I paid her some attention for your sake, little one, but really I had to think twice before recalling her. Her name was Molly, wasn't it?"

"Tab Twing writes me of a report that Molly is going to marry Captain Howker of the army. You know him," and the sister took observations from the corner of one eye.

"What, that chump? The infernal feather headed flirt and egotistical ignoramus! What right has a conceited puppy like that to marry a woman like her, to drag her from garrison to camp and from camp to garrison? Don't her family know enough to prevent it? Good heavens, Bess, you have influence with her! Why don't you interfere?"

"And get snubbed for my pains? I guess not! But you seem agitated about the matter, my dear boy."

"No; it's not that, Bess." Yet she could see the blush on the back of his neck as he looked out the window. "I'm ill. I've felt it coming on for several weeks. The truth is that the doctor says I must go south for awhile, and he never hesitated at this whopper, and she was gushing in her hypocritical sympathy. 'It's a confounded nuisance, but I'll start tonight!'"

Within 15 minutes she sent this: "Darling Molly, he's coming. I told you I'd find a way to stir him up."—Detroit Free Press.

When the Chief Cook Leaves.

The importance of a chief cook becomes evident when the time for his departure arrives. One day last week the proprietor of a popular restaurant on Fifth avenue decided for reasons of his own to part with the services of the man who had for some years looked after his kitchen. The chef retired and with him more than 20 of his assistants. This number included his assistant cooks and every man in the kitchen, even to the unimportant functionary who presides over the refrigerators. This exodus did not surprise the proprietor.

The chef had brought the others with him, and they were in a way more closely attached to his service than to the proprietor who paid them their wages. When a substitute was hired, he also brought the same complete corps of assistants who are supposed to know the methods of their chief better than any assistants not directly employed by him.

This manner of employment exists in all the large restaurants, where the head cook is absolute master in the kitchen and controls all the branches of his department down to the most unimportant. He is held responsible on this ground for all that may happen under his direction even if he was not personally concerned in the matter.—New York Sun.

SHOW OF LIVE STOCK.

BIG EXHIBIT FOR THE PAN-AMERICAN
AT BUFFALO.

Horse Show a Prominent Feature.
Model Dairy Building on the Grounds—Accommodations For 25, 000 Animals—Great Display of Agricultural Products.

The exhibit of live stock at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo the coming summer will include all varieties and breeds of domestic animals.
Arrangements have been made to accommodate 25,000 animals on the grounds. Liberal prizes in all classes will be offered.

A fashionable horse show will be a prominent feature of the display and will include harness horses, saddlers, jumpers, etc. This exhibition will be fashioned on the lines of the Madison Square Garden show and will be held at the Stadium.

A model exhibition dairy, composed of all breeds of milk cows, will be in operation during the six months of the Exposition.

A great display of the varied agricultural products from the various states, provinces and countries of the Western Hemisphere will be made in the Agricultural building, covering two acres.

Awards for all meritorious exhibits will be made direct to individual exhibitors.

The closing of the Nineteenth century has witnessed marvelous strides in the improvement of methods in the dairy world. Formerly the whole business was conducted largely by "rule of thumb." Instead of a vocation requiring a certain apprenticeship it is fast becoming an exact science, in which chemistry and bacteriology play no insignificant part. The increasing interest and attendance at the various dairy schools throughout the United States and Canada, the existence of great cooperative and commercial organizations for the manufacture and sale of dairy products, is an undisputed testimony to the achievements of modern science. In this great industry the government has appropriated vast sums of money to help the dairyman in his work, and this is indicative of its importance as a factor of the great food problem of the world.

The territorial lines of the dairy belt have long since been annihilated. A few states and provinces in the east no longer enjoy the exclusive distinction of being in the dairy sections. In the Dairy building at the Exposition space has already been asked for by Maine and California, Manitoba and Texas.
The supposed disadvantages of soil, water, climate and food in portions of North America have largely been eliminated by the skillful dairyman, and today splendid representatives of dairy animals are found wherever the wholesomeness and nutritive value of milk products are known.

Few people have any adequate conception of the present magnitude of the dairy industry. In the United States and Canada there is one dairy cow to every four persons, or 20,000,000 cows.
The annual milk production is estimated at $550,000,000. Add to this the value of dairy cows, $650,000,000, and we have $1,200,000,000. To this add the investments in dairy appliances, and we reach a grand total of $2,000,- 000,000 invested in this great industry in the United States and Canada. The great countries to the south of us, Central and South America, are eager for American dairy products, and with more people from these countries visiting the Exposition in 1901 than have visited the United States and Canada in the past half century the great commercial opportunity to exhibitors of Dairy Products and Supplies needs no further comment.

A large, beautiful building located near the Agricultural building will be devoted exclusively to Dairy Products and Dairy Apparatus.
All the milk products will be exhibited in glass cases properly refrigerated for the purpose of maintaining as far as possible the texture and quality of the products on exhibition. Exhibitors whose products form a portion of their state or provincial displays will not be charged for exhibit space, but individual exhibitors will be charged $1.50 per square foot for space occupied.

The exhibit of Dairy Appliances will embody all the recent inventions and improvements made in this industry, including sterilizers, pasteurizers, separators, coolers, churns, etc.

Electric power will be furnished in the building should exhibitors desire to monstrate the work of their machines for the benefit of the visitors.

The exhibit in the Dairy division will be a selective one and in point of attractiveness, interest and utility will surpass anything ever before attempted.

A Model Dairy, composed of representatives of all the breeds, will be in operation during the entire Exposition for the purpose of determining as far as possible the cost of production and the adaptability of certain breeds to special lines of dairy work. These several divisions are in charge of Mr. F. A.
Converse.

Race Development.

The Department of Ethnology at the Pan-American Exposition will include a vast museum of archaeological treasures by which the development of the races, particularly in America, may be traced. The Americas have proved to be rich fields which the students have neglected. Rude implements and vessels made by the mound builders, the Aztecs or the Incas many centuries ago and brought to light only in recent years will serve to introduce the first Americans to those of the present day.
A rare opportunity will be given to study the progress of man in labor and invention by means of these priceless exhibits.

WORDS.

Words are great forces in the realm of life.
Be careful of their use. Who talks of hate,
Of poverty, of sickness, but sets a foe.
These very elements to mar his fate.

When love, health, happiness and plenty hear
Their names repeated over day by day, They wing their way like answering fairies near,
Then nestle down within our homes to stay.

Who talks of evil conjures into shape
That formless thing and gives it life and scope.
This is the law; then let no word escape
That does not breathe of everlasting hope.
Ella Wheeler Wilcox in Woman's Home Companion.

A MATCH FOR A MILLION.

Winning a Wrestling Bout the Foundation of a Fortune.

"Had I caught my train that night," laughed the man who has had nothing to do for a quarter of a century but to sit and watch pines grow to swell his bank account, "I would probably be a farmer now trying to raise a mortgage and a few other things. I had gone to a little town in lower Wisconsin to see a colt that a man there wanted to sell. I was a good judge of stock and pretty shrewd on a trade, but a greener country lad never broke into a town. I would have walked back to the farm after I found myself too late for the train, but I saw a handbill announcing a show that night and could not resist the temptation to see it, though it did cost a quarter.

"In my hilarious appreciation I was more of an entertainer than they had on the stage, especially as I was utterly oblivious to the fact that I did not look like any one else in the audience. Toward the end of the performance a huge fellow came out, tossed cannon balls in the air, held men out at arm's length and lifted heavy weights. After this showing of his prowess he offered $10 to any one whom he could not throw inside of two minutes. I was the crack wrestler in all our section, though none present knew it, and I felt as though the challenge was aimed directly at me. I turned hot and cold during a few seconds of extreme silence. Then I sprang up and as I came out of my old blouse shouted, 'I'll go you, b'gosh!'

"There was a roar of laughter, and then some of those about me urged me not to go up there and have my neck broken. But one old man told me to go in and do my best. It was a tough job, but I finally threw the giant almost through the floor with a hip lock.
There was a little hesitancy about giving me the $10, but the crowd shouted until I got it. The old man took me home with him, and in a week I had charge of all the teams in his lumber camps. In time I became a partner, and he cleared the way to make me rich. That was really a match for a million."—Washington Star.

How He Earned Breakfast.

I must have walked the streets (of Richmond) till after midnight. At last I became so exhausted that I could walk no longer. I was tired, I was hungry, I was everything but discouraged. Just about the time when I reached extreme physical exhaustion I came upon a portion of a street where the board sidewalk was considerably elevated. I waited for a few minutes till I was sure that no passersby could see me and then crept under the sidewalk and lay for the night upon the ground, with my satchel of clothing for a pillow. Nearly all night I could hear the tramp of feet over my head.

The next morning I found myself somewhat refreshed, but I was extremely hungry, because it had been a long time since I had had sufficient food. As soon as it became light enough for me to see my surroundings I noticed that I was near a large ship and that this ship seemed to be unloading a cargo of pig iron. I went at once to the vessel and asked the captain to permit me to help unload the vessel in order to get money for food. The captain, a white man, who seemed to be kind hearted, consented. I worked long enough to earn money for my breakfast, and it seems to me, as I remember it now, to have been about the best breakfast that I have ever eaten.— Booker T. Washington in Outlook.

Little Harry's Diplomacy.

Little Harry was very fond of sweet things to eat, and especially of puddings, which were his favorite dessert.
Accordingly his dinners were made a burden to him, since his parents persisted that he must make his meals off the substantial and leave what Harry called the good things until last.
One day while Harry's nostrils were tickled with the tantalizing odors of his most favored pudding a scheme was born in his brain that points his way to future greatness. When his mother put before him a plate of meat and potatoes he eyed it a moment in apparent ecstasy; then, showing it regretfully away, he said:

"I declare that looks so good I guess I'll leave it till the very last thing and get rid of that pudding first!"—What to Eat.

Got No Autograph.

To an applicant for his autograph Mark Twain on one occasion sent a letter the substance of which was as follows:

"To ask a doctor or builder or sculptor for his autograph would be in no way rude. To ask one of these for a specimen of his work, however, is quite another thing, and the request might be justifiably refused. It would never be fair to ask a doctor for one of his corpses to remember him by."
There was no autograph to the letter, which was typewritten throughout.

At an early hour yesterday morning Master Derden Chance was kicked by a horse in the garden at the family residence in this city. The animal's foot was shod and the skull was fractured above the right eye. Derden had gone out to feed the horse and no one witnessed the casualty, but his cries attracted attention at once. Physicians were hastily summoned and after administering chloroform the particles of broken bone were removed and the wound properly dressed and stitched up. When last heard from, the little fellow was resting well, and as he is possessed of great vitality, he will doubtless recover.

MEN'S OUTFITTERS.

First Lieutenant Albert Jenkins, who is in the artillery service of the regular army, has successfully passed the examination for promotion to a captaincy and is now at the officers' school at Fort Monroe. He attended the funeral of President McKinley at Canton Thursday and was acting captain of one of the six companies present. He was expecting his commission as captain about the middle of the present month, but the death of President McKinley has occasioned temporary delay. He passed a high examination, entitling him to choice of the three branches of the service and he chose artillery. Lieutenant Jenkins' rapid rise in the army is a matter of great pride to his friends at home. He enlisted in the army five years ago as a private at San Antonio, and two years later was made second lieutenant. Last February he was promoted to first lieutenant. He has seen important service during his brief career in the army, and probably won his spurs at Key West, where he was in command during a yellow fever epidemic.

Modern Courtship Dramatic.

There is something quite idyllic about the fresh air courtships that are going on during these latter summer days. Truly, one would think that the love fostered by wind and sunshine might well be purer and more enduring than a fancy engendered in a ballroom, and aided by dinners, the opera, etc. A three mile match over the golf links with a congenial companion, or a tramp through bog and heather on a shooting expedition before breakfast, are the roads to matrimony of the summer girl of 1899. One cannot help fancying that the human race will be stronger and better for these methods of wooing. There is also a good comradeship and congeniality implied by such companionship which seems particularly desirable.

These latter day courtships may be matter of fact, but they are certainly breezy and altogether delightful, and the moonlight girl and the piazza girl of yore possess no more romantic or tender memories of lovemaking than our young Amazons of today will have in the years to come.

Senator Hoar's Odd Motions.

Wall Street Generosity.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co., of Wall street, New York, have given to the widow of a recently deceased employe a pension of $7,000 a year, which is the full amount of the salary he was paid when alive.

Latest Fad.

You must do away with all your inanimate mascots and have live ones. The pig is the latest fad for the New York girls, several of whom have tiny pigs, with ribbon tied about their necks, following them about the house, or on the streets, as they walk as sets Demorest's Magazine. Besides pigs, rabbits, goats, white mice, alligators and monkeys are affected by some young women.

The Poorly Paid Potheeker.

THE GRAND SCHEMER

HIS TAILOR CALLS TO SEE HIM WITH HIS LITTLE BILL.

The Account Remains Unsettled, but the Clothing Artist Is Taken Into the Great American Steam Trousers Creaser Company.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

Major Crofoot had left the door of his office open by accident, and as he sat smoking with his heels on his desk he was suddenly accosted with:

"I vhas come for dot leetle bill."

"What—er—eh—is it you?" exclaimed the major as he almost fell out of his chair in getting up. "Well, well, but this is luck. Why, man, I was just making out a check for you. I happened to remember that I owed you a dollar for cleaning my suit."

"Yes, it vhas a dollar," replied the tailor as he held out the bill, "and you don't pay me for a year."

"A year? How time flies! Yes, it is a bill for a dollar for cleaning a salt and pepper suit, and if you had only waited half an hour you would have had a check for it. The check would have been filled out for $100. My dear man, you are one of the few people who had confidence in me when my fortunes were at the lowest ebb. The check for a hundred was to prove my gratitude."

"Vhell, I'll take him now," said the tailor.

"Ah, I remember that salt and pepper suit and the days of my adversity," sighed the major as he walked about and ignored the check. "You brought the suit up here one day thoroughly cleaned and rehabilitated, and you went away saying not a word about the bill. You treated me as if I had millions of dollars, and never, never can I forget your consideration. Major Crofoot remembers those who remember him."

"Vhell?" queried the tailor as he looked at the bill in his hand.

"I said a check for a hundred," replied the major, "but I shall do better than that. A hundredfold is not enough. I'll make a rich man of you. I'll put you right up among the millionaires. The more I think of how you trusted in my integrity the more anxious am I to prove my gratitude. Tailor, shake hands. Tailor, accept my congratulations."

"But how vhas he?" asked the creditor, with a puzzled look.

"It was this way, my dear, confiding friend: I was just about to incorporate the Great American Steam Trousers Creaser, with a cash capital of $1,000,000. The papers go to the secretary of state today. Next week the first machine is set up. In three months we shall have 50 of them at work in the principal cities of the United States. The stock is supposed to sell at par, but I can get you $10,000 worth at $87. The dividends won't be less than 50 per cent and may go a hundred. For the first machine out we want a practical manager. You shall have the position at $20,000 a year. Tailor, shake hands."

"I don't see how he vhas," said the tailor after a lymphatic shake.

"You don't? That is because your good fortune has for the moment upset you. Look at my trousers. Look at the trousers of all the men you meet. There are creases in them. When you buy a pair of $10 trousers, you pay $5 for the creases. You must have 'em to be in the swim. Can't go into society or get a check cashed at the bank without 'em. The creasing, as you know, is now done by hand and is slow work. Our company will crease by steam. The trousers will be fed in, the same as straw, and at the rate of 30 pairs a minute. They come out beautifully creased, at a cost of only a quarter a pair, and there you are. Each machine will crease 18,000 pairs per day of ten hours, and that's an income of $4,500 a day. We shall steam crease the trousers of the world. Every royal head will be among our patrons. Isn't it plain to you now? Isn't it as clear as daylight that you will be riding in your own barouche in less than six months?"

"But you owe me a dollar," persisted the tailor.

"Great Scott, but you talk about a dollar when hundreds of thousands are falling at your feet! Let me go over this once again. We are the Great American Steam Trousers Creaser. We don't steam trousers, but we crease 'em by steam."

"I know."

and we have 20,000 machines at work. Your share of the profits will be at least half a million dollars per year. In ten years you are worth $5,000,000. Tailor, shake hands. It all comes from your confidence in me."

"But I don't have some confidence."

"Vhas here for my dollar?"

"And the dollar is your deposit on your ground floor stock. It is an evidence of your good faith and will eventually be returned to you. Can you sell your shop today? Can you be ready in three days to take hold of the first machine and feed 18,000 pairs of trousers through it? You can, of course. You will be ready, and I can depend on you. Shall I speak to some bank about your opening an account?"

"If—if—you could pay?"

"You'll get your first month's salary in advance, and if you want to use half a million I can lend you the cash. That's all, except that we'll shake hands again. You will excuse me, I know, but I've got to go out for an hour or two. Call again. See you later. Don't fail me."

The grand promoter put on his hat and overcoat and left the office. The tailor had come for that dollar. He took a chair to wait. The fire was low and the room was cold, and in an hour his teeth were chattering. He stood it for another hour, and then he rose up and softly tiptoed out and went down stairs. At the foot of the stairs he met a man who queried:

"Do you know if that old deadbeat Major Crofoot is up stairs?"

"He vhas gone out," was the reply.

"Have you been trying to collect a bill?"

"Yes."

"And how did you come out?"

"I vhas put into dot Great American Steam Trousers Creaser und creased all over 18,000 pairs a day, und now I vhas glad to go home mit my life und let dot bill go. Shake hands. I congratulate you!"

A WOMAN'S STRATEGY.

She Found a Way to Quicken a Laggard Lover to Action.

After the athletic young man, resting lazily in an easy chair, had studied the ceiling at which he was blowing smoke he replied to the pretty sister who had twice asked him the same question:

"Bess, you know I don't care the turn of my hand for women. I'm saturated with what the politicians call apathy. Of course I remember the Georgia girl that visited us last summer. She was a magnificent creature to look at, but I'll warrant she is just like the rest of them. I paid her some attention for your sake, little one, but really I had to think twice before recalling her. Her name was Molly, wasn't it?"

"Tab Twing writes me of a report that Molly is going to marry Captain Howker of the army. You know him," and the sister took observations from the corner of one eye.

"What, that chump? The infernal feather headed flirt and egotistical ignoramus! What right has a conceited puppy like that to marry a woman like her, to drag her from garison to camp and from camp to garison? Don't her family know enough to prevent it? Good heavens, Bess, you have influence with her! Why don't you interfere?"

"No; it's not that, Bess. Yet she could see the blush on the back of his neck as he looked out the window."

"I'm ill. I've felt it coming on for several weeks. The truth is that the doctor says I must go south for awhile," and he never hesitated at this whopper, and she was gushing in her hypocritical sympathy. "It's a confounded nuisance, but I'll start tonight!"

Within 15 minutes she sent this: "Darling Molly, he's coming. I told you I'd find a way to stir him up."

When the Chief Cook Leaves.

The importance of a chief cook becomes evident when the time for his departure arrives. One day last week the proprietor of a popular restaurant on Fifth avenue decided for reasons of his own to part with the services of the man who had for some years looked after his kitchen. The chef retired and with him more than 20 of his assistants. This number included his assistant cooks and every man in the kitchen, even to the unimportant functionary who presides over the refrigerators. This exodus did not surprise the proprietor.

The chef had brought the others with him, and they were in a way more closely attached to his service than to the proprietor who paid them their wages. When a substitute was hired, he also brought the same complete corps of assistants who are supposed to know the methods of their chief better than any assistants not directly employed by him.

This manner of employment exists in all the large restaurants, where the head cook is absolute master in the kitchen and controls all the branches of his department down to the most unimportant. He is held responsible on this ground for all that may happen under his direction even if he was not personally concerned in the matter.—New York Sun.

SHOW OF LIVE STOCK.

BIG EXHIBIT FOR THE PAN-AMERICAN
AT BUFFALO.

Horse Show a Prominent Feature.
Model Dairy Building on the Grounds—Accommodations For 25-000 Animals—Great Display of Agricultural Products.

The exhibit of live stock at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo the
coming summer will include all varieties and breeds of domestic animals.
Arrangements have been made to accommodate 25,000 animals on the grounds. Liberal prizes in all classes will be offered.

A fashionable horse show will be a prominent feature of the display and
will include harness horses, saddlers, jumpers, etc. This exhibition will be fashioned on the lines of the Madison Square Garden show and will be held at the Stadium.

A model exhibition dairy, composed
operation during the six months of the Exposition.

A great display of the varied agricultural products from the various states, provinces and countries of the Western Hemisphere will be made in
acres.

Awards for all meritorious exhibits
will be made direct to individual exhibitors.

The closing of the Nineteenth century has witnessed marvelous strides in the improvement of methods in the dairy world. Formerly the whole business was conducted largely by "rule of thumb." Instead of a vocation requiring a certain apprenticeship it is fast becoming an exact science, in which chemistry and bacteriology play no insignificant part. The increasing interest and attendance at the various dairy
schools throughout the United States and Canada, the existence of great cooperative and commercial organizations for the manufacture and sale of dairy products, is an undisputed testimony to the achievements of modern science. In this great industry the government has appropriated vast
sums of money to help the dairyman in his work, and this is indicative of its importance as a factor of the great
food problem of the world.

The territorial lines of the dairy belt
have long since been annihilated. A few states and provinces in the east no longer enjoy the exclusive distinction of being in the dairy sections. In the Dairy building at the Exposition space
has already been asked for by Maine
and California, Manitoba and Texas.
The supposed disadvantages of soil, water, climate and food in portions of North America have largely been eliminated by the skillful dairyman, and today splendid representatives of dairy
animals are found wherever the wholesome and nutritive value of milk products are known.

Few people have any adequate conception of the present magnitude of the dairy industry. In the United States and Canada there is one dairy cow to every four persons, or 20,000,000 cows.
The annual milk production is estimated at $550,000,000. Add to this the value of dairy cows, $650,000,000, and we have $1,200,000,000. To this add the investments in dairy appliances, and we reach a grand total of $2,000-000,000 invested in this great industry in the United States and Canada. The great countries to the south of us, Central and South America, are eager for American dairy products, and with more people from these countries visiting the Exposition in 1901 than have visited the United States and Canada
in the past half century the great commercial opportunity to exhibitors of Dairy Products and Supplies needs no further comment.

A large, beautiful building located near the Agricultural building will be devoted exclusively to Dairy Products
and Dairy Apparatus.

All the milk products will be exhibited in glass cases properly refrigerated
for the purpose of maintaining as far as possible the texture and quality of the products on exhibition. Exhibitors whose products form a portion of their state or provincial displays will not be charged for exhibit space, but individual exhibitors will be charged $1.50 per square foot for space occupied.

The exhibit of Dairy Appliances will
embody all the recent inventions and
improvements made in this industry,
including sterilizers, pasteurizers, separators, coolers, churns, etc.

Electric power will be furnished to the building should exhibitors desire to monstrate the work of their machines for the benefit of the visitors.

The exhibit in the Dairy division will be a selective one and in point of attractiveness, interest and utility will surpass anything ever before attempted.

A Model Dairy, composed of representatives of all the breeds, will be in operation during the entire Exposition
for the purpose of determining as far as possible the cost of production and
the adaptability of certain breeds to special lines of dairy work. These several divisions are in charge of Mr. F. A.
Converse.

Race Development.

The Department of Ethnology at the Pan-American Exposition will include a vast museum of archaeological treasures by which the development of the races, particularly in America, may be traced. The Americas have proved to be rich fields which the students have neglected. Rude implements and vessels made by the mound builders, the Aztecs or the Incas many centuries
ago and brought to light only in recent years will serve to introduce the first
Americans to those of the present day.
A rare opportunity will be given to study the progress of man in labor and
invention by means of these priceless exhibits.

WORDS.

Words are great forces in the realm of life.
Be careful of their use. Who talks of hate,
Of poverty, of sickness, but sets life
These very elements to mar his fate.

When love, health, happiness and plenty hear
Their names repeated over day by day,
They wing their way like answering fairies near,
Then nestle down within our homes to stay.

Who talks of evil conjures into shape
That formless thing and gives it life and scope.
This is the law; then let no word escape
That does not breathe of ever-lasting hope.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in Woman's Home Companion.

A MATCH FOR A MILLION.

Winning a Wrestling Bout the Foundation of a Fortune.

"Had I caught my train that night,"
laughed the man who has had nothing to do for a quarter of a century but to
sit and watch pines grow to swell
his bank account, "I would probably be a farmer now trying to raise a mortgage and a few other things. I had gone to a little town in lower Wisconsin to see a colt that a man there wanted to sell. I was a good judge of stock and pretty shrewd on a trade, but a greener country had never broke into a town. I would have walked back to the farm after I found myself too late for the train, but I saw a handbill announcing a show that night and could not resist the temptation to see it, though it did cost a quarter.

"In my hilarious appreciation I was more of an entertainment than they had on the stage, especially as I was utterly oblivious to the fact that I did not look like any one else in the audience. Toward the end of the performance a huge fellow came out, tossed
cannon balls in the air, held men out at arm's length and lifted heavy weights. After this showing of his prowess he offered $10 to any one
whom he could not throw inside of two minutes. I was the crack wrestler
in all our section, though none present
knew it, and I felt as though the challenge was aimed directly at me. I turned hot and cold during a few seconds of extreme silence. Then I sprang up and as I came out of my old blouse
shouted, 'I'll go you, b'gosh!'

"There was a roar of laughter, and
not to go up there and have my neck broken. But one old man told me to go in and do my best. It was a tough job, but I finally threw the giant almost through the floor with a hip lock.
There was a little hesitancy about giving me the $10, but the crowd shouted
until I got it. The old man took me home with him, and in a week I had charge of all the teams in his lumber camp. In time I became a partner, and he cleared the way to make me rich. That was really a match for a million."—Washington Star.

How He Earned Breakfast.

I must have walked the streets (of Richmond) till after midnight. At last I became so exhausted that I could walk no longer. I was tired, I was hungry, I was everything but discouraged. Just about the time when I reached extreme physical exhaustion I came upon a portion of a street where
the board sidewalk was considerably elevated. I waited for a few minutes till I was sure that no passersby could
see me and then crept under the sidewalk and lay for the night upon the ground, with my satchel of clothing for a pillow. Nearly all night I could hear the tramp of feet over my head.

The next morning I found myself
somewhat refreshed, but I was extremely hungry, because it had been a long time since I had had sufficient
food. As soon as it became light enough
for me to see my surroundings I noticed that I was near a large ship and that this ship seemed to be unloading a cargo of pig iron. I went at once to the vessel and asked the captain to permit
me to help unload the vessel in order to get money for food. The captain, a white man, who seemed to be kind hearted, consented. I worked long enough to earn money for my breakfast, and it seems to me, as I remember it now, to have been about the best
breakfast that I have ever eaten.—
Booker T. Washington in Outlook.

Little Harry's Diplomacy.

Little Harry was very fond of sweet
things to eat, and especially of puddings, which were his favorite dessert.
Accordingly his dinners were made a
burden to him, since his parents persisted that he must make his meals
off the substantial and leave what Harry called the good things until last.
One day while Harry's nostrils were tickled with the tantalizing odors of
his most favored pudding a scheme
was born in his brain that points his way to future greatness. When his mother put before him a plate of meat
and potatoes he eyed it a moment in apparent ecstasy; then, shoving it regretfully away, he said:

"I declare that looks so good I guess I'll leave it till the very last thing and
get rid of that pudding first!"—What
to Eat.

Got No Autograph.

To an applicant for his autograph Mark Twain on one occasion sent a letter the substance of which was as follows:

"To ask a doctor or builder or sculptor for his autograph would be in no way rude. To ask one of these for a specimen of his work, however, is quite another thing, and the request
might be justifiably refused. It would never be fair to ask a doctor for one of his corpses to remember him by."

There was no autograph to the letter,
which was typewritten throughout.

Don't get the notion in helping the poor that you can do more with a "cheerful word" than you can with a dollar.—Arlinson Globe.

Modern Courtship Unromantic. There is something quite idyllic about the fresh air courtships that are going on during these latter summer days. Truly, one would think that the love fostered by wind and sunshine might well be purer and more enduring than a fancy engendered in a ballroom, and aided by dinners, the opera, etc. A three mile match over the golf links with a congenial companion, or a tramp through bog and heather on a shooting expedition before breakfast, are the roads to matrimony of the summer girl of 1899. One cannot help fancying that the human race will be stronger and better for these methods of wooing. There is also a good comradeship and congeniality implied by such companionship which seems particularly desirable. These latter day courtships may be matter of fact, but they are certainly breezy and altogether delightful, and the moonlight girl and the piazza girl of yore possess no more romantic or tender memories of lovemaking than our young Amazons of today will have in the years to come.

Senator Hoar's Odd Motions.

Latest Fad.

You must do away with all your inanimate mascots and have five ones. The pig is the latest fad for the New York girls, several of whom have tiny pigs, with ribbon tied about their necks, following them about the house, or on the streets, as they walk as peris Demorest's Magazine. Besides pigs, rabbits, goats, white mice, alligators and monkeys are affected by some young women.

The Poorly Paid Pothecker.

At an early hour yesterday morning Master Derden Chance was kicked by a horse in the garden at the family residence in this city. The animal's foot was shod and the skull was fractured above the right eye. Derden had gone out to feed the horse and no one witnessed the casualty, but his cries attracted attention at once. Physicians were hastily summoned and after administering chloroform the particles of broken bone were removed and the wound properly dressed and stitched up. When last heard from, the little fellow was resting well, and as he is possessed of great vitality, he will doubtless recover.

First Lieutenant Albert Jenkins, who is in the artillery service of the regular army, has successfully passed the examination for promotion to a captaincy and is now at the officers' school at Fort Monroe. He attended the funeral of President McKinley at Canton Thursday and was acting captain of one of the six companies present. He was expecting his commission as captain about the middle of the present month, but the death of President McKinley has occasioned temporary delay. He passed a high examination, entitling him to choice of the three branches of the service and he chose artillery. Lieutenant Jenkins' rapid rise in the army is a matter of great pride to his friends at home. He enlisted in the army five years ago as a private at San Antonio, and two years later was made second lieutenant. Last February he was promoted to first lieutenant. He has seen important service during his brief career in the army, and probably won his spurs at Key West, where he was in command during a yellow fever epidemic.
